President's Message

Dear graduates,

On behalf of Mogadishu University community, it is a great honour and privilege for me to be part of this convocation and I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate each one of you sincerely. As MU community, we are thrilled to graduate you today as you have qualified to be awarded Master degree, postgraduate diploma and bachelor degree awards. It is our honour to have you as graduates of Mogadishu University, a prestigious institution with excellent teaching experiences and community services in Somalia. I appreciate the efforts of your parents, sponsors and lecturers for guiding and supporting you in your search for knowledge, your chase in career and your dreams for a better life in future. I know you had to go through virtual classes and virtual exams to complete your programs as we faced a challenging time of COVID 19, but we managed together and overcame these pressing and hard times.

During your study, you have developed lifelong friendships and networks. You have also become a valued member of our vibrant MU family, and today will mark the end of a long journey of life accomplishment. It is an excellent day as we celebrate your graduation. This victory of academic achievement is not only the end of one trip but also the beginning of another as you pursue a better life for you, your family, and your country.

Dear graduates, I would like to remind you that there are a lot of challenges ahead of you. As MU releases you today to the market, the issues of unemployment for graduates continue to be a big challenge for all stakeholders. However, we are very pleased that you are equipped with relevant skills which make you competent and best candidates for any offer of your field. We encourage you to grab any opportunity that comes your way. We urge you to be innovative, hardworking and adventurous and sort out the problems that you will face and also try to tackle your people's challenges. We count you, expect you to uphold the right image of being good ambassadors with mission and values to positively contribute to rebuilding and developing the country and beyond.

In conclusion, upon award of your degrees, I invite you to continue your university relationship by becoming a member of our growing Alumni community. The alumni can play a role in various aspects beneficial to the students, graduates, the university, and society as a whole. Again, congratulations on completing your program. Be proud of what you have worked to achieve and remember those who have supported you to reach this end. Congratulations to everybody and I wish you a successful life and career in the future.

Faculty Of Health Sciences

DEAN'S MESSAGE,

Welcome to the Faculty of Health Sciences, which was established in 2000. Over the years, we have trained thousands of healthcare professionals all over the world. The Faculty of Health Sciences has taken the lead in providing health care in Somalia by rigorously training students and conducting ongoing research on current health issues. The Faculty offers programs in Nursing, Medical Laboratory Sciences, Public Health, Midwifery, Nutrition & Dietetics, and Clinical Officer.

We are unique because we believe that the Faculty of Health Sciences should have the highest flow of information. Students who are being educated in any part of this faculty must be taught by the most knowledgeable individuals in their field. We are also distinct in that we have made your future concerns our own. We've welcomed you as our own children, so your future is additionally linked to ours. As a result, our educational structure not only aims to raise individuals to compete within Somalia, but also encourages students to compete around the world while having fun doing so. Keep in mind, if you're good enough, you won't have to look for a job; it will find you.

The Faculty wishes to congratulate the graduates and to convey the simple message that graduation marks the end of one chapter in one's life and the beginning of another. As you prepare to take the next exciting step in your life, embrace yourself with self-esteem and strive to serve your country and people in general. I wish you a happy and successful career path that allows you to realize your ambitions.

Eng. Abdirahman Ismail Dhaqane
Dean, Faculty of Engineering

Faculty Of Engineering

I would like to extend my heartfelt congratulations to the graduating students who are going to receive their degrees and diplomas at the end of their study.

In a modern world, everybody is aware of critical infrastructure needs for society that range from roads for safe and environmentally friendly transportation to buildings to buried pipelines for the distribution of clean water. In order to assure that public and private investments meet both our immediate and long-term needs, we must develop a sustainable mindset, innovative project management approaches and technologies that create our future built environment.

Like any other developing country, Somalia needs a lot of work to be done to build its infrastructure. Many government and non-governmental development projects have been implemented since the end of the civil war in the country. These projects have involved and are still involving a huge number of civil engineers. Still, a lot of development work has to be accomplished to build the infrastructure in the years to come. Once the infrastructure is built, constant maintenance of the projects at a standard level is also a major task. These development activities are impossible to undertake without the direct involvement of civil engineers. Thus, there is a very good opportunity for the civil engineers, especially in Somalia, to participate in these development projects and hence build to their careers. Be it real estate development or construction and maintenance of telecommunication towers, water quality improvement or flood control, precipitation prediction or traffic planning, tunnel excavation or road construction, seismic retrofitting or repair of structural damage, civil engineers are fundamental to the development of this country.

By keeping up with the growing concerns over sustainability and environmental issues in the present world, the Civil and Architectural Engineering has become the modern version of the classical Engineering program in the academic arena.

Since its establishment, the Faculty of Engineering at Mogadishu University has maintained its three major departments: civil, architectural, electrical and electronic engineering. The journey of the department started with a clear vision of creating high quality civil engineers to make safe homes, supply clean water to drink, make safe roads to drive, make cities free from pollution, make large safe dams, warehouses, tunnels, seaports, airports, etc.

The course outline covers all the fields within the Civil Engineering discipline and it eventually leads the students to decide their field of choice for specialization. Specialization takes place in the fields of Structural Engineering, Environmental Engineering, Geotechnical Engineering, Transportation Engineering and Water Resources Engineering. These include studies on the properties of building materials, soil properties, irrigation and flood control, seismic analysis and design, among others. In the Civil Engineering Department of MU, the practical courses dependent on laboratories start from the very first semester and continue up to the graduation of the students. In addition, the faculty offers several diploma programs and professional courses that transform on yearly basis.

In the context of ever changing needs and challenges, the Department of Architecture, MU with its caring and quality education aspires to develop creative, enlightened, socially responsible and morally upright scholars appropriate to serve and lead the contemporary and upcoming world.

An architect is needed not only for building a house but also for building the surroundings, the city and in short, the environment. The environment must be planned, visioned, organized and sustained for us as well as for generations to come.

The Faculty of engineering at MU provides internships for its final year students who are being attached to various firms and organizations to work in practical fields. They get the opportunity to apply their skills and theoretical knowledge in real life situations. In conclusion, I congratulate to all our graduating students for the accomplishments of their academic goals here at Mogadishu University.

We expect you to be the beacons of education and development in our country today and tomorrow.

I wish you the best of luck.
